Religion and Spirituality

Your religious and cultural beliefs are welcomed at Suffolk. We pride ourselves in having a multicultural campus. That's why there are a number of religious organizations and an Interfaith Center on campus. If you need a prayer room or a place to pursue your spiritual practices, we have a space for you to safely worship. Step outside onto the streets of Boston, and you'll be close to many centers of worship.

Religious Groups on Campus

There are many different student-run organizations on campus that may relate to your identity. If you do not see one start one of your own. Student Involvement accepts proposals for new organizations which may include funding.

- Christian Life
- Suffolk Hillel
- Suffolk Islamic Cultural Society

Interfaith Center

Anyone is welcome to start a new religious group at Suffolk or join an existing one. You can find out more at the Interfaith Center. The Center unites the Suffolk community via:

- The University Chaplain
- Seasonal celebrations
- Ongoing activities like Eastern meditation, worship services, Christian Bible study, Islamic daily prayers, and lectures
- Interfaith room where individuals and student groups of any religious tradition may worship
- Meditation room
- Wudu facilities
